ECCENTRIC TANTRUMS
Use Our Military To Keep the U.S. on Top

Excessive military spending is diverting our nation's resources and allowing other countries to pass us economically. The U.S. has even higher per capita military spending than Israel, which has been essentially in a continuous war zone since 1948. Only the United Arab Emirates spends more per capita in the world. With this focus on maintaining empire and diverting away from building our country's economy, we might as well use that military to maintain our slipping economic position. The best place to start is with the place that has been illegally and/or unethically sucking the most wealth out of our homeland. That's right, we're talking about the Cayman Islands.

A tiny Caribbean-island paradise with a population slightly more than the City of Binghamton's, the Cayman Islands have been deflecting hundreds of billions of dollars away from the coffers of the United States for years. How have they done it? To quote Jonathan Winters in It's a Mad Mad Mad Mad World, "Everyone has to pay taxes. Even businessmen who lie and cheat and steal from people every day. Even they have to pay taxes." Except if you're the Cayman Islands, now those same businessmen don't even have to pay taxes anymore.

The Cayman government boasts "There are no corporation, capital gains, payroll, property or withholding taxes on any type of company, domestic or foreign." When you offer to give something of value away for free what usually happens? You've seen the videos of Black Friday mob scenes. There are over 93,000 companies registered with the Cayman Islands as their official address (Binghamton (continued on page 11))

DON'T BLAME WOMEN'S LIB

A lot of bull has been written about women's lib undermining the "moral fiber" of young girls by advocating free love. It may be true, up to a point, but the real culprit is the U.S. Government.

The government by making welfare payments to unwed mothers is doing more to destroy the institution of marriage than all the big-mouth amazons yelling for equal rights.

It is disgraceful that thousands of tramps are drawing fat checks from the government to support a brood of illegitimate children (very often each child sired by a different father) while honest, decent women are forced to take jobs to help support a family.

What makes it more of a bitter disgrace is that these decent, hard-working mothers have to pay taxes.

It seems to me that newspapers would be doing more of a public service by exposing government subsidies for unwed mothers than in writing those amusing stories about women's lib.

STOCK MARKET SECRETS

Thanks for the article "How to Get Rich Playing the Stock Market." I showed it to a friend who works for a stock broker and he said the system you published was the only way to play the stock market. The reason stock brokers don't let their customers in on the secret is that they wouldn't be able to "churn" clients' accounts by in-and-out trading.
