

The Adventures of Kim Dotcom

By Tremolo Van Boing

Kim Dotcom and his amazing friends know the Moth Fakir discovered their attempt to hack into his brain. There's no telling how he might react, but whatever it is they know it will be bad.

With no time to lose, they decide they need to attempt to recruit a friendly government that can bring the awesome resources Kim and friends lack on their own.

So it was up to Edward Snowden to approach Vladimir Putin and tell him all about the Moth Fakir and his hideous plot.

Putin, being a former head of the KGB, could be a valuable ally indeed.

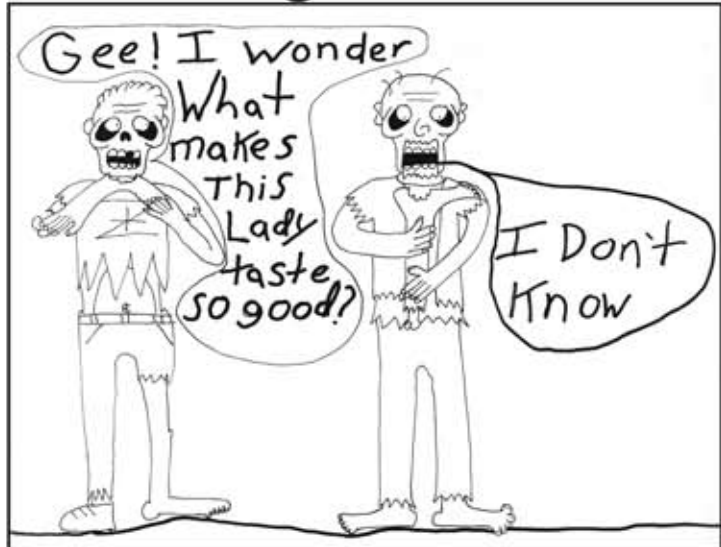

The United States was out, since that country is stupidly trying to thwart Kim and friends, being the perfect unwitting ally of the Moth...

But maybe a little too perfect, and maybe not so unwitting. Could the Moth Fakir be controlling the minds of leaders in the U.S. government?
